CONFERENCE PRELUDE

Welcome to the 17th International Conference of Plant Scientists!

We are delighted to invite you to the prestigious 17th International Conference of Plant Scientists, which will be held at the Institute of Botany, Bahauddin Zakariya University, Multan, Pakistan from February 15th to 18th, 2024. This conference promises to be an exceptional platform for researchers, academicians, and industry professionals to exchange knowledge, present their cutting-edge research findings, and discuss the latest advancements in the field of plant sciences.

Conference Theme:

"Capitalizing Plant Diversity for Ensuring Food Security"

The conference seeks to address key challenges and opportunities in the field of plant sciences, fostering discussions and collaborations to capitalize on the diverse plant resources for sustainable agriculture and food production.

Conference Highlights:

- Keynote speeches by renowned experts in the field of plant sciences
- Oral and poster presentations by researchers national and international scientists
- Panel discussions on emerging topics of Plant Sciences
- Networking opportunities to foster collaborations and partnerships
- Exhibition of services related to plant sciences
- Field trips to Derawar Fort / Cholistan Desert / Salt Range to explore botanical diversity of the region.
